Dear Joshua,

We are happy to announce the opportunity for Conference on Statistical Practice presenters to submit an original paper to a topical collection of the Journal of Statistical Theory and Practice (JSTP) – a Springer publication. This invitation is available for a selection of those who present a contributed oral presentation or short course. All submitted manuscripts will go through the usual review process followed by the journal; publication is not guaranteed. We would welcome a submission from you and your mentor based on your award-winning CSP poster titled “Statistical considerations in the development of a consensus statement”.

More information on JSTP can be found here: <https://www.springer.com/journal/42519>. That journal’s format and editorial policies will be followed. Here is a timeline for the submission and initial review process.

- Corresponding authors send me a note about their intention to submit by April 30, 2024.
- Submit manuscripts to the journal website by July 30, 2024.

In addition to the manuscript and supporting documents, this invitation letter must also be uploaded during the submission process.

We are very excited to invite you to this opportunity. Should you have any questions, please email Julia Sharp (julia.l.sharp@gmail.com) with questions.

Sincerely,

Julia Sharp
